Janacek Construction Area's Only Certified Window "InstallationMasters™,"

Rogers, AR - Janacek Construction in Rogers, AR, has announced that Tim Janacek has joined a select group of certified window and door "InstallationMasters™" installers for new construction and remodeling projects. Tim is the only America Architectural Manufacturers Association (AAMA) certified installer in Arkansas.

"Everyone who is building or remodeling a house should know that no matter how much they spend on top notch windows, the windows won't perform properly if they are not installed correctly," explained Tim Janacek, owner of Janacek Construction. "Poor installation techniques can defeat the advantages of the product and result in air or water leaks, wasted energy or improper operation."

To qualify as a certified InstallationMasters™ technician, Janacek attended an intensive two-day training course conducted by InstallationMasters™-accredited instructors. The installers had to demonstrate competency by passing a written test designed to assess the knowledge they gained during the training course. Once they passed the test they became certified InstallationMasters™ installers.

"It's true that we already had years of experience installing windows and doors, but this program brought us up to speed on today's industry-accepted standards and techniques designed to avoid common installation problems," said Janacek. "It was well worth the effort and we're proud that we can do an even better job in the future."

"We're well aware that many people are wary of contractors, given the horror stories you sometimes hear about shabby workmanship and the negative impact this has on energy efficiency. This is one way we can show prospective customers that we're a reputable, reliable resource," Janacek said as he displayed his official InstallationMasters™ photo ID card.

Consumers can confirm that a window installer is qualified under the InstallationMasters™ program by asking to see his/her ID card provided by the national program administrator upon successful completion of the exam.

The InstallationMasters™ Training and Certification program was developed by the America Architectural Manufacturers Association (AAMA), a professional association of some 300 top residential and commercial window, door and skylight manufacturers and suppliers. This organization has been recognized for over 60 years as improving product quality performance standards and installation methods in the window and door industry.

Supported by the U.S. Department of Energy and the National Institute of Building Sciences (NIBS), the InstallationMasters™ program was launched nationally in 1999 and is capturing the interest of window installers, contractors, builders and manufacturers nationwide who are interested in better customer satisfaction. Their interest has a practical side, too, in that better window installation quality means improved energy performance and reduced field service costs for “callbacks” to correct faulty installation.

In addition to looking for AAMA-certified windows as quality products, the educated consumer will also insist that these products be installed by certified InstallationMasters™ installers. Installed properly, windows are more likely to perform as they have been designed, tested and certified to perform, with fewer frustrating service calls required to correct problems.

Janacek, who is a strong believer in continuing education, is also an Aging In Place Specialist (CAPS), holds a Graduate Master Builder designation, is a Certified Graduate Remodelor (CGR) and has 20 years of experience in new construction and remodeling. Tim is the only active contractor in Arkansas to hold the Graduate Master Builder designation and only the second in the state to hold the Certified Graduate Remodelor designation, and the only CGR in Northwest Arkansas.

Janacek Construction routinely handles kitchen and bath remodels, room additions, deck and garage construction and ground up custom home construction. Janacek Construction is made up of an experienced team skilled in all areas of remodeling and construction. They handle all phases of a project from framing to drywall, roofing to painting and electrical to plumbing. They are known for their professionalism, courtesy and attention to detail. To better serve their clients, the Janacek's offer computer aided design and the ability to show clients on screen what their project will look like in three dimensions.
